

BREAD INTO STONES.

Bishop Kain's Discourse on the Temptations of Modern Life.

TOO GREAT SOLICITUDE FOR GAIN

One of the Evils Humanity is Prone to—Dishonest or Questionable Speculations one of the Outgrowths. The Miserly and Uncharitable Rebuked in Scathing Terms—His Third Lenten Lecture.

There was again a very large audience at the vesper services in the Cathedral yesterday afternoon, when Bishop Kain delivered the third of his Lenten instructions. Quoting the words addressed by Satan to Christ, "If Thou be the Son of God, command that these stones be made bread," the bishop adverted to the cunning which the Devil shows in selecting the time and form of his manifold temptations. Because Christ is weakened by His long fast, Satan tempts Him to satisfy His hunger by an uncalculated miracle. This temptation is renewed as often as men are inspired to use unlawful or dangerous means to accomplish their ends—tempted, in a word, like Christ. The danger of succumbing to this temptation becomes all the greater when men find themselves hard pressed in the struggle to provide a livelihood for themselves and others dependent on them.

Again: what are most of those gigantic speculations by which millions are amassed by a single transaction in stocks or bonds, but huge schemes of gambling, differing only in their very vastness from the performances of out-lawed swindlers? Even in lesser transactions of buying and selling, how many sharp practices are resorted to without scruple, which are not indeed strictly dishonest, and yet lack certain elements of fair dealing. So many men now-a-days seem to be always on the alert to make vast gains out of the most meagre investments—bread out of stones! There is no question but this desire to grow rich suddenly, and by any means within reach, is one of the unchristian characteristics of our American people. Young married people often want to begin life amid all the comforts to which their parents have attained only after many years of industry and frugality. Many, too, assume a position in society which their income will not justify—hence the temptation to use doubtful and even dishonest means to keep up appearances; in other words, to turn stones into bread.

The bishop also rebuked in scathing terms the miserly spirit of those who, out of seeming dread of poverty, close their hearts against the appeals of the needy; who turn into stones the bread of God's poor. This niggardliness is a most unreliable policy of insurance against the fickleness of fortune. He cautioned his hearers against too great solicitude and over-anxiety in providing even what is necessary, lest they be led into a distrust of God's fatherly providence, reminding them of the solemn promises of the Saviour in the matter of our temporal needs, and of the words of the Psalmist: "I have been young, and now I am old, and I have not seen the just forsaken, nor his seed seeking bread." The bishop thus summed up his instruction: Never yield to the temptation to employ unjust or even questionable means to compass a temporal gain; be not a worshipper of money or of place; be generous in your aims—deeds to the poor; place implicit trust in God's fatherly care, since His word is pledged to supply all your needs—artificial—but real wants.

Next Sunday afternoon, the bishop will develop some of the other practical lessons taught by the Saviour's temptation and victory over Satan.

Transfers Recorded.

Clerk Hook on Saturday admitted to record transfers of real estate as follows:

Deed made November 8, 1892, by William Koehnline and wife to Absalom Beal for lot No. 117, in square No. 6, in J. P. Gilchrist's addition, No. 3; consideration $250.

Deed made March 3, 1893, by Louisa King and John T. King, her husband, to John Schabinski and Mark Sonnenfeld for lot No. 1, in square No. 2, in Hyllinger's addition, consideration $400.

Deed made February 14, 1893, by J. Jacob and Henry M. Russell, special commissioners, to William Henry for lot No. 11, in Bellevue; consideration, $400.

Hart's Big Boston Novelty Co. Coming.

Hart's Boston Novelty Company, which comes to the Grand Opera House for three days, commencing March 9, will test the capacity of that popular theatre. The company is headed by the famous Barra Troupe, four musical comedians direct from Paris. Besides, there are the Rogers Brothers, German comedians; Miss Mabel Francis, Protean artist; Bartlett and May, sketch artists; George E. Austin, comedy wire performer; Mat Farnan, clog dancer; Leslie and Curdy, the black midgets; Ruby Hart, songstress; Fisher and Crowell, character change artists, and a laughable afterpiece by Scott Marble.

Grand Show To-night.

A great big expensive show of thirty odd people and all of them famous in their lines, opens for a three nights' engagement at the Grand-to-night. The organization is known as Fields & Hanson's Drawing Cards, and from authentic reports has almost created a new standard for vaudeville entertainments by its real merit and magnitude. John F. Fields, the ex-minstrel and the originator of musical comedy, is the owner and manager and the practical experience of thirty years as a performer is concentrated in the grand and celebrated act and people he has under contract in this company.

The Ariel Ladies' Sextette.

This charming combination is composed of six sisters of superior culture and refinement who have sung together from childhood. The voices are all well trained and very sweet. The sextette will give a concert at the Young Men's Christian Association next Thursday evening. Seats will be reserved at the association building at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning.

FRANK HENNIG'S POSITION

In Mr. Keene's Company Discussed by an Eastern Paper.

Albany, N. Y., Argus.

The following paragraph and others of similar tenor have been going the rounds of the New York papers:

"Frederick Paulding, who is this season the leading actor in Thomas W. Keene's company, was once a star himself, and made his debut on the stage as Hamlet. Since then he has had wide experience in the legitimate drama, and during his long engagement with Margaret Mather played the part of Romeo upwards of seven hundred times. Mr. Paulding has many friends and admirers in New York who will probably go to see him during Mr. Keene's coming engagement at the Union Square Theatre."

The question of precedence, as between actors, in the same company, the public does not care a rap about. It is enough to see the play and who plays the parts. "Leading man" is a term that in itself doesn't amount to a pittance. If, however, Mr. Paulding is Mr. Keene's lead, how does it happen that Mr. Frank Hennig plays all the characters next in importance to those played by Mr. Keene? How is it that on the programme his name is always the next after that of the tragedian?

In "Othello" Mr. Hennig plays Iago, and in "Richard III." Richmond. In "Richelieu" he assumes the character of Cardinal, a role quite as often chosen by the "leading man" as De Mowbray.

The Ghost is his part in "Hamlet," and in "The Merchant of Venice," Gratiano. To continually print such paragraphs as quoted above is to insult the public and doubt their intelligence. While Mr. Paulding is unquestionably a good actor, it should not grate on his vanity to play second to Mr. Hennig, who is equally as well in and in many respects better.

It took many thousands of dollars to experiment Mr. Paulding as a star, and the result was a failure. Mr. Hennig has had no such advantages and has been content to mount slowly, by patient, honest work. Mr. Paulding will never be more than a capable and conscientious "leading man." Mr. Hennig has the future before him and has made no mistakes.

Dr. Riker's Discovery.

"A Man's Common Sense Laughing at his own Folly" was the topic of Rev. Dr. A. B. Riker's lecture to men only at the Opera House yesterday afternoon, and as on the occasion of his three former talks a large audience was present. Commencing next Sunday, Dr. Riker, Rev. Dr. Cunningham and Rev. Jacob Brittingham will give a series of three talks to men at the Y. M. C. A. hall.

Young Miller's Funeral.

The funeral of young Miller, the Riverside workman, who died from injuries received by a recent accident there, took place yesterday. The body was brought through Wheeling for interment at Mt. Calvary, accompanied by the fellow workmen in a body, headed by the Deaewood brass band. The funeral was unusually largely attended.

They Want a Contest.

Patrick Frey and William Gordon, known as "Wild West," two prize fighters, are quarreled at Pella's, at Etnaville, and are trying to arrange for a fight at an early date in John Pella's hall, there. Both are strangers, but they are said to be good pugilists. Their idea is to make a contest for points.

"ELEVATOR SICKNESS."

It Has a Serious Meaning and is Described.

UNHEALTHY MOTIONS.

"Look Out for Dangers When You Feel Them," Says a Physician.

"I must get out of this. I feel sick and dizzy."

The speaker was a well known business man who was going to his office on the fifth floor of the Mills Building, yesterday, by means of the passenger elevator. He got out at the third floor and walked up the rest of the way. A physician who noticed this incident, in speaking of it afterwards, said: "That is a kind of sickness which is more common than most people suppose. In fact, hardly a week goes by but what I am called upon to treat people who are suffering from it. I call it 'elevator sickness,' although it is not always due to riding in elevators, but arises from a disease which is made apparent by motion of that kind. As elevators are being more and more used, the presence of this complaint is becoming more generally felt."

The doctor thought awhile before replying, and then said: "These symptoms show that there is too much bile in the system, and that means that the liver and kidneys are more or less out of order. For this reason people who feel this dizziness and sickness should never allow it to pass unnoticed, but should take steps to remedy it without delay. If they neglect to do so they will find before very long that the disease it indicates has gotten such a hold on them that they cannot shake it off, and doctors will be powerless to cure it."

Every one who has suffered from the painful symptoms so plainly described in the doctor's words, will be interested in the following remarks on the subject, which should be carefully read:

Mr. Francis McGovern, residing on 123d street, New York, says: "For several years I had strange symptoms, great pains and stiffness in my back, frequent headaches, poor appetite, irregular sleep and a constant desire to sleep. Motion of any kind was unbearable. Friends advised the use of different remedies, but I found that there was only one thing that would help my condition. I am a well man to-day, due to the use of that great remedy, which is Warner's Safe Cure. It is the best medicine ever made, and holds a high place in my estimation."

D. H. Young, foreman of the shoeing shop of the Sixth Avenue Railroad Company, says: "I have seen the time when I'd have given $100 for a moment's freedom from pain. Many an hour have I walked the floor to gain relief, which only came with exhaustion. I had suffered for twenty years from kidney disease. At times it had been so bad that I could not ride two blocks in the cars without feeling a desire to get off and void. At that stage of my disease, my wife begged of me to try a certain remedy, but I objected as I had no faith in it, but finally I yielded to her wishes. I am rejoiced to say that by the use of Warner's Safe Cure I was restored to health, and am a well man to-day."

Mr. James Larrabee, the well-known counsel-at-law, whose office is at No. 55 Liberty street, says: "I have used Warner's Safe Cure personally, and with the best results. I have recommended its use to very many friends and acquaintances during the past ten years, and it has invariably proved eminently satisfactory. It cured my brother of Bright's Disease, and has always been a cure for kidney troubles in all cases that I have known, and where I have recommended it."

These people speak from experience. Their words are earnest and outspoken, and are the best testimony that can be presented in behalf of the great Safe Cure that has done so much for them.
